TO RAISE THE MAINE

A Wrecking Company Asks Permission of the Government to Do So

Washington, October 28.—The Acme Wrecking Company, of San Francisco, has made a request on the havy department for a thority to raise the battleship, Maine. The company has had experience in raising vissels on the Pacific coast and representations have been made to the department as it is ability to accomplish the task in Havana harbor. It proposes to blow the mud from under the wrock by means of streams of water and then to pass chains under and attach them to framework connected with a system of steel barrels. These barrels will also be placed in the wreck and utilized wherever they can be made available. The company simply asks authority to raise the Maine and bring her to this country. If the government wants, the ship after she reaches the United means of streams of water and then to framework connected with a system of steel barrels. These barrels will also be placed in the wreck and utilized wherever they can be made available. The company simply asks authority to raise the Maine and bring her to, this country. If the government wants, the ship after she reaches the United States, the company will want to be paid salvage money through condemnation proceedings. It is probable in case the government did not want the ship, the company would exhibit her in different large sea coast cities of the United States. No money is demanded from the government by the company. It is stated at the department unofficially that in case the companys found reliable the authority will no doubt be given.
